DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-3, 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The claimed "ionic liquid" is not sufficiently described. There is no identification as to the liquid species in the specification. The species identified as being contained by the ionic liquid are not liquid at ambient temperature. As such there is no liquid species identified. As such, the claims are not sufficiently described. Clarification is required.
4. Claims 1-3, 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
5. The claimed "ionic liquid" renders the claims indefinite. There is no identification as to a liquid species in the specification. The species identified as being contained by the ionic liquid are not liquid at ambient temperature. As such there is no liquid species identified. As such, the claims are indefinite. Clarification is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-3, 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Onuki et al. US 6,283,903.

8. The rejection set forth under 35 USC 103 in the paper mailed 10/4/07 is deemed proper and is herein repeated.

9. Applicants remarks filed 2/2/08 have been fully considered but have been found not persuasive.

10. The primary point of contention is that the art fails to specifically identify an "ionic liquid" as claimed. Applicants argue that the species of conducting agents listed in the patent are not liquids. Further, the lithium perchlorate species is used in the comparative examples of the specification and shown to be problematic. This is not persuasive.

11. The generically identified conducting agents at column 9 lines 10-25 are seen to overlap and/or render obvious those claimed. The reference to "cationic surfactants" at line 24 of column 9 is particularly relevant. The claimed ionic species are known to be cationic surfactants, particularly those of claim 8. As such, their incorporation is obvious.

12. The use of the solid conducting agents, as referenced in this patent, dispersed and/or dissolved in a liquid is prima facie obvious given the art recognized advantages in doing so. One of ordinary skill understands and appreciates the advantages in dispersability obtained when a solid additive is first dispersed/dissolved and subsequently mixed with the rubber.

13. Further, this patent describes a "conductive plasticizer" at column 15 line1. Plasticizers are known to be liquids. This plasticizer reads upon the claimed ionic liquid understanding that the plasticizer is conductive because of ionic groups contained within the liquid. This reads on the ionic liquid and is added to a rubber.
